

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A two-part needle for a dental syringe in which the first part of the needle is attached to the syringe and has a larger cross0section than the other part, which is malleable, can be increased while the first part has a chamber for housing a cartridge with thermoplastic material therein that is caused to flow through the needle and into the dental cavity.